Freeway Accident Kills One

A Huntington Beach woman died Friday after a two-car freeway accident in which her auto crashed backwards through a bridge railing, fell 30 feet and landed upside down on the boulevard below.

A Gardena bartender, who police say struck the dead woman's car, was hooked on suspicion of manslaughter.

The victim, Julia Pope, 56, of 5041 Caspian Circle, was the only person injured in the 2:30 p.m. on the Harbor Freeway at the Figueroa Street undercrossing.

No one else was in the path of her careening car.

Witnesses told the Highway Patrol the other driver, Glynn McNemar, 23, of 1320 Compton Blvd., Gardena, was southbound at high speed when he struck Mrs. Pope's car.

Officer Larry Bennett said both cars spun out, but McNemar's car stayed on the freeway. It clipped a third car as it spun, he said.

Mrs. Pope was taken to Harbor General Hospital where she died at 4:10 p.m.

County fire units rushed to the scene to wash down spilled gasoline when police feared the woman's car might catch fire.

Officer Bennett said hundreds of drivers stopped—some on the freeway—to look at the accident. It took 30 minutes to unsnarl the traffic jam, he said.

Warm, Bright Mother's Day

Mother's Day will be warm as a mother's heart and bright as her loving smile.

Any holiday planned for mother Sunday should be all right weatherwise. Take her to the mountains. Take her to the beach. Unless the Weather Bureau is completely wrong, no harsh winds or showers or gray skies will mar the perfection of her day.

A word to the wives: Get your garden going as soon as the ground and your husband can be worked.

NUMBERS DECODED

Garrison 'Links' Ruby to Oswald

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison said Friday Jack Ruby's unpublished telephone number appears in code in address books belonging to Lee Harvey Oswald and Clay L. Shaw. Garrison told Criminal District Court his investigators broke a telephone number code used by both Oswald and Shaw, a retired New Orleans executive accused of conspiring to murder President John F. Kennedy.

The district attorney's disclosure runs counter to the Warren Commission Report which found no indication of any link between Oswald and Ruby. Oswald was identified in the report as Kennedy's assassin. Ruby shot and killed Oswald at the Dallas police station two days after Kennedy's death on Nov. 22, 1963.

Garrison's statement came in answer to motions by Shaw's attorneys asking the return of Shaw's address book, which was seized March 1 along with five cartons of materials from Shaw's handsome French Quarter home.

The New Orleans district attorney has charged that Oswald, Shaw and the late David W. Ferrie conspired here in September 1963 to kill President Kennedy.

Garrison said Shaw's address book "contains a unique address which exists also in the address book of Lee Harvey Oswald, as printed in the Warren Commission exhibit Volume XVI, Page 58."

He said both notebooks contain the same Dallas post office reference, "P.O. Box 19106."

"What makes even more significant this interesting concurrence of address is the fact that in 1963 there existed no such post office box number in Dallas," Garrison said.

"The fact is that P.O. 19106 has been found to be a coded description of an

Destroyer Rammings Played Down by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department reported no evidence Friday that the Kremlin deliberately ordered destroyer collisions to worsen U.S.-Soviet relations or warn against American actions in Vietnam.

With this public assessment, the Johnson administration sought to calm international waters troubled by the past two days' naval encounters in the Sea of Japan.

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said no official reply has come from Moscow yet to the stern U.S. protests over the two brushes between the U.S. destroyer Walker and Soviet destroyers shadowing the U.S. naval maneuvers. The harassments and the collisions are serious matters, the State Department spokesman said.

But he added:

"We have no evidence that the incidents reflect any deliberate intention to worsen U.S.-Soviet relations or that they are related in any way to the situation in Vietnam."

"We trust that we have seen the last of these incidents."

The Defense Department reported that the American antisubmarine exercises continued Friday in the Sea of Japan with at least one Soviet warship observing from a distance, but there were no new harassment efforts.

The government-run Moscow radio meanwhile has disputed the U.S. charge, contending the American ships were on dangerous maneuvers which caused the collisions.

But if the Soviet diplomatic reply comes in the same key as the State Department's statement, the affair seems likely to pass into the history books as another in a long series of cold war naval brushes rather than as a major international incident.

The Walker was scraped for the first time on Wednesday by a Soviet destroyer on the high seas between the Russian and Japanese coasts. The following day it nosed into the rear of another Soviet destroyer.

According to the U.S. version, both brushes were caused by violation of navigation rules by the Russian ship despite warnings from the Walker.

'YOU MAY NOT WAKE, LUCI'

LBJ Feared He Started War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson, worried about his order for U.S. bombing of oil depots in North Vietnam, told his daughter Luci last June, "Your daddy may have started World War III."

The oft-told story broke into print Friday after Johnson confided in guests at a White House reception Thursday night.

The President told one guest he was so worried that he told Luci, "You may not wake up tomorrow."

The occasion for the apprehension and discussion with Luci was the President's decision to order U.S. Air Force and Navy pilots to bomb oil storage areas near Hanoi and Haiphong last June 29. They were the first air raids in the immediate vicinity of North Vietnam's capital and major port, and were viewed as a significant U.S. escalation of the war.

Luci had just returned from a date with her fiancé, now her husband, Patrick Nugent, about midnight.

The President talked to Luci about his concern about the planes and the men aboard them, and of the dangers involved in hitting the Haiphong area where Soviet ships unload war equipment for North Vietnam.

Luci said her father looked tired and suggested they go to see "my little monks" and pray at a monastery in a poor section of Washington. He and Luci prayed at St. Dominic's Church for several hours.

When they returned to the White House, the President learned in the early morning hours that all the planes and men had returned safely from the bombing raids.

Johnson slept late that morning. And when Luci came in to see him, he told her everything had worked out all right. Luci told him, "My little monks came through."

Caracas Catches Cubans

Castroites Nabbed Sneaking Onto a Venezuela Beach

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — The government announced Friday night it had intercepted a guerrilla landing force led by officers of Fidel Castro's Cuban Communist army. The leader of the party was reported killed.

President Raul Leoni said Venezuela is "taking all necessary measures to face this national emergency."

Interior Minister Reinaldo Leandro Mura said Venezuela's patience "is reaching its limit" and the case would be taken before the Organization of American States.

Mura displayed to newsmen two men he said were Cubans captured Monday night when Venezuelan army regulars discovered four Cubans and eight Cuban-trained Venezuelans sneaking ashore from two rubber rafts at Machurucuto, a lonely Caribbean beach 90 miles east of Caracas.

The area is close to a guerrilla mountain hideout and four miles east of Tacarigua Lagoon, halfway between Caracas and Barcelona.

The two Cuban prisoners were produced at a crowded news conference in a government office building across from the presidential palace.

The first, Gil Castellanos, 25, a slender, frightened-looking man about 5 feet 7, said he was a second lieutenant and had served four years in the Cuban army.

IN RESPONSE to a question he said, "I only came to transport some Venezuelan citizens — around eight."

The next prisoner, a stocky 6-foot militiaman identified as Pedro Cabrera Torres, 29, of Pinar del Rio, was asked what he was doing when caught.

"I was on a guerrilla infiltration operation," he replied.

HOSMER'S 'FUZZPHRASE'

Intelligence Dept.

Fooled by Computer

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Marine Warrant Officer Anthony De John, of 7562 Amazon St., Huntington Beach, paled when he received a summons from a counterintelligence officer at Camp Butler in Okinawa.

"De John! We found this in your desk," accused the officer, brandishing a piece of paper.

The paper bore a warning that it was "cosmic top secret—eyes only" and bore a cryptographic chart.

De John heaved a sigh of relief and explained the working of the chart — known as a "Fuzzphrase Computer." By following a key, the chart combines words into various Pentagonese phrases that can be used to befog virtually any situation.

The chart was devised by Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Long Beach, and since has gotten wide circulation among the military — except, obviously, counterintelligence officers.

De John's commanding officer, Lt. Col. W. H. Simpson, wrote Hosmer of the incident and said that it resulted in a complete fuzzphrase computer briefing for the counterespionage corps.

Control Lack Causing Poverty War Failure

By BOB SCHMIDT
From Our L.A. Bureau

Bitter complaints the War on Poverty in Los Angeles was being lost because of too much "absentee control" drew sympathy from three members of a U.S. Senate subcommittee Friday.

But, subcommittee chairman Sen. Joseph Clark of Pennsylvania predicted, more, not less, federal control of the various antipoverty programs seems likely.

Sen. Clark, along with Senators George Murphy of California and Robert F. Kennedy of New York, conducted a six-hour hearing in the County Hall of Administration, and heard nearly unanimous condemnation of the manner in which the "war" is being fought.

Witness after witness, giving vent to emotional outbursts, complained the poor in Los Angeles are "losing faith" in the government's attempt to eliminate poverty because guidelines do not fit local situations.

Also, witnesses testified, programs were being held up because of "jurisdictional jealousies" between various agencies.

Operation Head Start, for example, was cited as being the War on Poverty's most notable project. But, witnesses said, the education "establishment" — identified as school boards and systems — was not cooperating because it wanted more control in the administration of the effort.

Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty appeared briefly to file a statement with the subcommittee, but left before he could be questioned about his charges that the Office of Economic Opportunity was issuing rules that are "capricious, arbitrary, and often downright ridiculous."

Congressman Augustus Hawkins, who represents south central Los Angeles, said political bickering among the various antipoverty agencies was increasing, and particularly criticized the amount of money "being spent for executive salaries and admin-

New Caves Searched for Lost Youths

HANNIBAL, Mo. (UPI) — While a giant mechanical hoe chopped into sinkholes in a highway roadbed, rescue crews searched a huge cave beneath the roadbed Friday night for three boys missing in Mark Twain Country.

The earth-moving machine was put into use after a 48-hour search of mammoth, meandering Murphy Cave was abandoned.

Search authorities were told a cave found beneath the roadbed did not extend only 100 feet as was first thought, but had tunnels stretching 1,000 feet from a sinkhole.

The boys—Joe Hoag, 13; his brother, Bill, 11 and their pal, Edward Dowell, 14—may have gone exploring in any of these fissures and could have been accidentally buried by construction equipment dumping fill, it was theorized.

The boys had been missing since Wednesday afternoon.

Thugs Pull 3 'Jobs' in Two Days

Two bandits, whose descriptions match closely those of a pair of gunmen who seized more than $7,000 from banks in Paramount and Culver City Thursday, terrorized about 40 persons in a Lawndale bank Friday before escaping with $8,000.

Some 22 employees of the Security First-National Bank, at 17124 Hawthorne Blvd., were among the terrorized victims of the pair.

One of the bandits, carrying a shotgun, fired a blast from his weapon when the bank's patrons moved too slowly to suit him after he ordered them all to lie on the floor. The pellets tore into the wall of the bank but wounded no one.

The shotgunner's accomplice, armed with a revolver, worked his way through four teller's cages, cleaning out the cash from each.

Both men were described as Negroes, about 30 years old, six feet tall and weighing about 190 pounds. They were attired in striped coveralls, with baseball caps and sun glasses. Both had adhesive tape stripped over their faces and fingertips.

The bandits made their escape in a waiting auto which was identified differently by several witnesses. The reported license plate numbers were found to be stolen from a downtown Los Angeles location.

On Thursday, two tall Negroes — whose descriptions matched those of the pair who invaded the Lawndale bank Friday — robbed the First State Bank of Lynwood, 16241 Paramount Blvd., escaping with $2,500, and the Culver City Branch of the Bank of America, getting away with $4,700.

War May Increase Pending Tax Boost

HOT SPRINGS, Va. — The government now expects the Vietnam war to cost at least $5 billion more than originally budgeted in fiscal 1968, which could force President Johnson to ask Congress for more than the 6 percent tax surcharge he originally proposed, it was learned Friday. Government officials informed a group of corporate economists of the $5 billion increase at a meeting in Washington May 2. A Business Council report of the meeting was read to members of the council Friday at the opening of its two-day conference here. Following the closed session, Ralph Lazarus, chairman of the council's committee on domestic economy, summarized the report for newsmen. Later, apparently without his knowledge, copies of the report were distributed to correspondents. Unless Johnson's proposed tax hike is enlarged to meet expanding war costs, the federal budget deficit is likely to reach $15 billion in the fiscal year that begins July 1. This would be the highest deficit since World War II. Government officials have quietly informed big business of the expected escalation in Vietnam spending.

Industrial Output Slips

WASHINGTON — Industrial output slipped slightly during April, carrying the sluggishness in production into the second quarter of the year. The Federal Reserve Board said Friday its index of industrial production dropped to 155.9 per cent of the 1957-59 base period, down one-half of one point from March. This was the lowest output in 11 months. Government economists, however, called the drop insignificant and said it had been anticipated.

Teachers Halt Strike

BALTIMORE — Baltimore teachers ended their strike against city schools Friday after a stormy three days that saw students covroting in the streets, illegal picketing, some vandalism and 201 arrests. American Federation of Teachers Local 340 voted to return to classes Monday after their chief negotiator said they had won their major demand—the right to hold a collective bargaining election.

Civil Rights Bill Stymied

WASHINGTON — Senate hearings on President Johnson's civil rights bill were put off for another month Friday, further dimming any chance for action this year. The bill, including a proposed ban on discrimination in the sale or rental of housing, was submitted to Congress Feb. 15.

'San Andreas Fault' on Moon

PASADENA, — The first closeup picture of the moon's south polar region taken by America's Lunar Orbiter 4 spacecraft revealed Friday an earthquake-like fault of the type found in California. Dr. Harold Masursky told a news conference the fault valley—"similar to California's San Andreas Fault"—is about 200 miles long and 10 miles wide.

Red Mortars Rock U.S. Seabee Camp

SAIGON — Communist gunners opened up again today on U.S. positions in South Vietnam, hitting a Seabee camp at Chu Lai and making a second attack on the U.S. Army airstrip at Phuoc Vinh, 34 miles north of Saigon. The attacks followed Friday's shelling in which Communist mortars and howitzers buried within the Demilitarized Zone, killing one American and wounding 24. In the air war, U.S. Air Force pilots returned to the Hanoi area Friday to bomb a storage area and an army barracks. Each target was four miles from the center of the North Vietnamese capital. A U.S. spokesman said the American planes encountered Communist MIGs, but there was no word on aerial fighting. While artillery and mortar duels between U.S. and Communist forces intensified, ground fighting flared nine miles southwest of coastal Duc Pho, about 330 miles north of Saigon.

Riots Restrict U.S. Sailors

HONG KONG — Thousands of leftist Chinese youths rioted Friday for the second straight day in Kowloon, the teeming refugee district opposite Hong Kong island. They hurled molotov cocktails at police, looted shops and set fire to trucks and automobiles. Hong Kong island was free from trouble; 2,500 American sailors from 11 warships of the 7th Fleet were barred from going to Kowloon but were free to visit Hong Kong.

Pope Flies to Fatima

VATICAN CITY—Pope Paul VI left Rome at dawn today to fly to the Portuguese shrine to the Virgin Mary at Fatima to pray for peace in Vietnam. At Fatima the Pope, being awaited by more than one million faithful, will meet Sister Lucia, the only survivor of the three children who declared they saw the Virgin Mary. Their meeting comes on the 50th anniversary of what the Roman Catholic Church officially holds to be the Miracle of Fatima.

Boddy Dies

Manchester Boddy, former publisher of the Los Angeles Daily News, which suspended publication in 1954, died Friday in Pasadena's Huntington Hospital at the age of 75. Boddy, who campaigned unsuccessfully for the U.S. Senate in 1950 against famous protagonists Helen Gahagan Douglas and Richard M. Nixon, and his wife, Bernice, moved to San Diego County 11 years ago after selling their estate near La Canada to Los Angeles County. The estate now is famed Descanso Gardens.

GOD IS ALIVE!

The divine Principle — the basic cause which is God — is as vital and active on man's behalf now as when Christ Jesus healed in Galilee.

Don't just accept this on faith... you can prove it for yourself. You can prove that an understanding of God can transform a person's life, his character, his health.

Ralph W. Cessna, C.S.B., a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, will speak on this subject in a lecture called "Is There a God?" He will discuss the point of view of both those who sincerely feel there is no God and those who believe that God can be absent or unavailable in time of need.

Mr. Cessna will answer these concepts with examples of individuals who, through a new awareness of what God really is, have eliminated deep character faults, overcome illnesses called incurable, and unhappy situations. Admission is free, everyone is welcome.

Stokely Out as SNCC Leader

Black power leader Stokely Carmichael was replaced Friday as national chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

Nonviolent Coordinating Committee by an Alabama staff member, H. Rap Brown.

There will be no change in SNCC's black power policy, Brown said at a news conference in Atlanta climaxing a week-long staff meeting of the militant organization.

"We shall seek to build a strong nationwide black antidraft program and movement to include high school students," Brown, 23, a native of Baton Rouge, La., and SNCC worker "on and off for about four years."

Brown, who said he had been living in Selma, Ala., wore the traditional blue-jeans of SNCC workers. Sitting beside him, a grinning Carmichael — the youth who gave voice to the black power cry in Mississippi last year — declined to say if he was voted out of office or stepped down voluntarily.

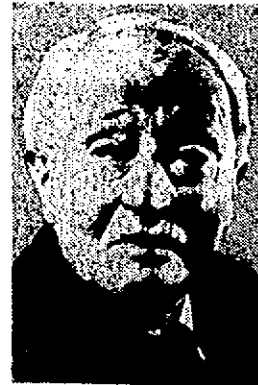

Carmichael said he would return to the field to organize. He said he would not continue his college speaking tours and public appearances.

POET DIES

John Masefield, Britain's poet laureate for 37 years, died Friday. The author of the famous lines "I must go down to the sea again, to the lonely sea and the sky," was 88.

Masefield, the sea-faring premier poet of the sea-faring British nation, was still playing "my trade" when he became ill. He had suffered from a heart ailment for many years.

Masefield was the first to admit his poetry was not always good because of the vast quantity. But at the age of 83 he won the coveted William Foyle Poetry prize for "The Bluebell and

JOHN MASEFIELD

Other Verses," his 27th book of poems.

Raised by an aunt, Masefield first went down to the seas at the age of 13. For four years he sailed the world, then decided to become a writer. He never abandoned his love of ships and the sea. Perhaps his best-known poem was "Down to the Sea in Ships."

Students Okay Coed Nude

Swimming Bill

DAVIS (AP) — Coeducational swimming in the nude is "groovy," says Douglas Britton of Sacramento, a member of the student legislative assembly at the University of California at Davis.

But he was pretty much in jest when he recommended the assembly adopt a resolution advocating nude swimming for men and women students at one of the two campus pools.

The resolution passed by an 8-7 vote with little debate Thursday night.

But the suggestion also would have to be approved by the university administration. There was no immediate comment from school administrators.

State's Education Board 6-0 Against Rumford Act Ban

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state Board of Education voted 6-0 Friday to oppose outright repeal of the Rumford open housing act but made it clear it wasn't against some modification of the controversial law.

Gov. Reagan's two appointees to the board abstained from voting after questioning the membership's authority to take a stand on housing legislation.

"This has a very direct application to education," said board Vice President Milton L. Schwartz of Sacramento. But he said the board's resolution didn't necessarily constitute support of all sections of the 1963 Rumford law.

The Senate has passed a bill to repeal the law, which bans racial and religious discrimination in renting and selling most California dwellings. The Senate bill and another measure to revise the act now are before Assembly committees.

IN 1964 the board took a stand against Prop. 13, the successful ballot move to repeal the Rumford law. The state Supreme Court last year declared Prop. 13 unconstitutional and the case now is before the U.S. Supreme Court.

"De facto segregation is in fact inferior education," said Dr. Miguel Montes of San Fernando in supporting the board's authority to oppose Rumford act repeal.

"Unless we can solve the problem of housing and de facto segregation, we're never going to have a quality educational system in California," said Montes, one of the two board members expressing strongest support of the resolution.

The board's only Negro member, Dr. Daniel A. Collins of San Francisco, moved adoption of the resolution after the Commission on Equal Opportunities in Education asked for the board's position.

The segregation problem is "just about to run our country off the map," Collins said. "This summer we might have to put people in concentration camps."

Schwartz agreed that the board should act on the resolution because housing integration would solve the racial segregation problem in neighborhood schools.

BUT Howard Day of Compton, appointed by Reagan this year, disagreed: "I don't think the Rumford act is the answer. If we could put the best teachers in these areas, we could probably do a better job of education."

Day said the resolution didn't give members a chance to support integration and at the same time criticize the Rumford act.

"Either you are for breaking up ghettos or you are against it," Collins said.

But Dr. Thomas G. Harward of Needles, also appointed by Reagan, questioned whether the issue was "in the realm of the board of education."

"How often do our policies affect housing?" he asked later.

Speakers Tell Youths How to Dodge Draft

By GEORGE LAINE

Draft-age youth were given a careful, detailed explanation of ways to evade service in the U.S. military in meetings held at the Unitarian Church of Orange County and California State College, Long Beach, on Friday night.

Neither meeting provoked the earlier-threatened violence, although the meeting at Anaheim was picketed by a group calling itself the Citizens Committee of California.

"We feel," Henry Maiden, an American Friends Service Committee official, told the Anaheim meeting, "that it should not be just the George Hamiltons and Muhammed Alis who have access to data on how the Selective Service system operates."

Maiden urged the audience, estimated at about 150 persons, to obtain and digest the "Handbook for Conscientious Objectors," a pamphlet published by the Central Committee for Conscientious Objectors. It costs $1.

More than half of the crowd assembled at the Anaheim church—which was pressed into service after the City of Anaheim refused permission for the group to meet in a city recreation center—appeared to be above draft age. Nevertheless, the audience was extremely well-mannered and attentive for messages by Richard Petherbridge, a Santa Ana attorney; Rev. Al Cohen, a Fullerton pastor; Rev. Paul Killinger, pastor of the Unitarian church; Rev. Roy Pendell, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Anaheim, and Maiden.

In Long Beach, about 100 youths turned out to hear a discussion of the alternatives available to those who feel the Vietnam war is immoral. Sponsored by the Student Action Committee for Civil Progress, the students—including a large representation of short-haired, neatly-dressed young men along with their less natty brethren—heard Paul Schiuffo, an official of the Students for a Democratic Society; Amos Murphy, former minister of the Unitarian church; Paul Gratz, CSLB student; James Goodwin, of the American Friends Service Committee, and Don Woolley, also a CSLB student.

Murphy, a rousing speaker told the Cal State meeting that they would have to make the decision for themselves on whether participation in the Vietnam war violated their own consciences. "You've got to be sincere," he said, "and you've got to be ready to go all the way."

Bill Passed to Ban Red Advocate Talk

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Speakers would be forbidden from advocating communism on state-supported college, junior college and university campuses under a bill approved by the Senate Education Committee Friday.

The committee sent the measure by Sen. James E. Whetmore, R-La Habra, to the full Senate.

Whetmore said the bill, if approved, would serve as a "tool" for campus administrators to improve the "unfortunate image" of some campuses.

"Some citizens feel the campuses are being used to further the Communist cause" by allowing Communists to speak, he said.

However, he emphasized the bill would not ban Communist speakers or forbid teaching about communism as long as it was not outwardly advocated. The measure would extend into higher education of the present state law forbidding such advocacy in elementary and high schools.

Whetmore said his bill doesn't contain provisions for enforcement which he said would be up to campus administrators.

The bill would require speakers to sign a statement that they won't violate the anti-advocacy law.

Doomed Man Given Stay by Douglas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Booker T. Hillery Jr., under death sentence in California in the slaying of a 15-year-old high-school girl, was granted a stay of execution Friday by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Hillery was scheduled to die June 7 in the San Quentin prison gas chamber. Execution was stayed by Douglas until the Supreme Court disposes of an appeal from the condemned man.

Hillery was convicted of slaying Marlene Miller of Hanford, Calif., on March 21, 1962. The Supreme Court refused in 1964 and in 1965 to hear two of his appeals.

MARRYING BARBER WED

Bigamist to Mental Clinic

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Robert Swartz, San Francisco's barber who has wed eight times with the aid of only one divorce, was remanded Friday to wife No. 6 by a superior court judge who had found him guilty of bigamy.

But there will be no honeymoon for the marrying barber this time. Judge Francis McCarty ordered Swartz sent to the California Medical Facility at Vacaville for a 90-day psychiatric examination.

The judge said he wants to "learn what makes you tick. You are either a Machiavellian character or very sick, or something in between. I want to find out."

Swartz' record had been cleared with a series of annulments this week. His bride is Amada Montalvo, 32, mother of Swartz' 14-month-old son, Robert William. The same rings they used when she became wife No. 6 were used Friday.

The bride's mother, Margaret Martinez, was the matron of honor. Defense attorney Louis Vasquez was best man.

The judge subsequently could sentence Swartz to a jail sentence or from one to ten years in the state after the 90-day psychiatric examination.

Pentagon Protesters' Trial Slated Thursday

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of antiwar protesters was jailed Friday after three and a half days of demonstrating at the Pentagon in an attempt to enter a top security area.

All 20 refused bail when brought before a U.S. commissioner and were confined to the District of Columbia jail.

They are scheduled to stand trial Thursday on charges of unlawful loitering, sleeping and assembling on federal property. They were arrested by U.S. marshals at midday when they began another attempt to enter the Pentagon, from which they were ousted

Thursday morning with orders not to come back.

When the group made a new attempt to enter the building, guards blocked them and 18 sat in a driveway in front of the entrance. At that point, a U.S. marshal told them they were under arrest. They were carried onto a bus.

Guards also seized two other members of the Committee for Nonviolent Action, which sponsored the demonstration, ignoring their protests that they were not trying to enter the building.

L.B. Sailors Tell of Fierce Battle Off N. Vietnam

By BUCK LANIER
Navy Editor

Fast and furious battle

action aboard the destroyer
USS O'Brien on Dec. 23 off North Vietnam was disclosed Friday by five crew-men.

One, Joe Pinneo of York,

Neb., was literally thrown through the air for about 20 feet, but was able to return to his telephone talker post in damage control.

O'Brien returned to Long Beach Friday with three other destroyers, the Ever-sole, Alfred A. Cunningham and Benner after seven months deployment.

Pinneo, a fireman apprentice, said: "I was knocked about four feet into the air, banked off the side of the ship's store and hit a rail. Guess I was airborne for about three seconds."

Three direct hits from a Red shore battery slammed into the ship's port side, killing two sailors and injuring four.

"It's a wonder more weren't killed," Chief Electrician Abe Irvin, Key West, Fla., said. The chief, a 22-year man in submarines, is in his first surface duty.

"We got all our damage control gear out in record time," Irvin said. "There was some fast and damn good work by these young sailors."

One of the injured, Ronnie Henson, Aurora, Mo., was in the passageway
when a shell hit, but escaped with facial injuries, shattered hand and a leg wound. He spent 30 days in the Long Beach-based carried USS Bennington's sick bay where the wounded were taken via helicopter after the efficient first aid aboard.

Two first class gunner's
mates, Bobby Williamson, Laurens, S.C., and Bradley Graham, Eldred, Pa., had to "run like hell" to get to their stations.

Williamson was on the signal bridge.

"I knew I was needed with my gun shack and ran like hell. We went to work returning fire from the aft guns. We're pretty sure we got them all," he said.

Graham was on the mess deck and had to report to damage control.

"It was a wild time and that 15 minutes seemed like 50, but everybody was together and did their job," Graham said.

And it is a certainty that Thomas Tigglass, Manistique, Mich., and Authone Perry, Union City, Calif., are proud, too.

They made the supreme sacrifice.

No Showdown in Stanton

An anticipated court clash Friday between Stanton's City Council and James Brown, former police lieutenant whom the council refuses to rehire, was put off calendar and the pending legal action dropped.

Matthew Kurilich Jr.,
Brown's attorney, said he
"intended to seek other legal action" to force the council to rehire his client.
He did not specify the type of action.

Brown was fired March 24, several days after he struck a handcuffed prisoner who had kicked him in the groin in front of witnesses. An appeals board voted 5-0 to rehire Brown, but the council voted 3-2 last Friday against the rehiring.

Pontiac's Rough-Road Test Exhausts Defect Chances

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

To insure even greater customer satisfaction, Pontiac Motor Division test drives every car immediately after it comes off the assembly line before it is shipped.

Within minutes after a new Pontiac or Tempest is built, it goes directly to a special road test track located behind Pontiac's home assembly plant.

The test track is marked by pot holes, staggered railroad ties, a ripple torsion twist section and side banks.

Seven inspectors drive the new cars down the track listening for abnormal noises. The results of this test are then recorded on each car's inspection card. If any irregularities are found they are corrected before the car is shipped. In addition, this information is fed back to the assembly line to insure that following cars are correctly assembled.

Every car built at Pontiac must and does pass this road test before it leaves the plant for shipment to a dealer's showroom.

Started with the first car of the 1966 model run, the track is an extra test initiated by Pontiac to assure that their cars are rattle and squeak free as built.

A similar track has been built at the Lordstown, Ohio, plant where Pontiac's new sports car, the Firebird, is assembled. Every new Firebird must pass the same test before delivery to dealers.

The factory road test is an addition to Pontiac's 117
other final assembly inspection operations and it is designed as a true obstacle course.

The car is first bounced by large pot holes on both the right and left side and then is bumped by staggered railroad ties running parallel with the car. Another set of ties set across the track the full width of the tires provide a ripple effect.

EVERY CAR tested at Pontiac Motor Division must pass successfully over pot holes, railroad ties and a ripple torsion twist before it leaves plant.

Bellflower Players in Debut

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Drama Critic

A lot of hard, dedicated work went into this weekend's baptism of the brand new Bellflower Cultural Arts Council and its premiere production, "Family Portrait."

Cast and stage crews, many learning the theatrical ropes by practice, put in long hours preparing for the three-act story of Jesus' family and its reactions to the Saviour.

But beyond these, an organization first was required — the council itself, called into being by a group of Bellflower civic and business leaders who felt their community needed a little theater, other artistic events.

ORGANIZED in 1964, BCAC organizes trips to museums and galleries, helps bring orchestras and other performing groups into the area. Now with the play by Lenore Coffee and William J. Cowen, it expands into theatrical production, in the Bellflower Women's Clubhouse.

Play producer was Ray Ross, BCAC second vice president. Directing was Nathan Adler, veteran of many Long Beach productions.

A large cast was assembled to portray Jesus' family. His close friends — and some enemies. He never appears on stage, is always either just arriving or leaving.

ally uneven, jobs.

Jesus was a carpenter, of course, as were brothers Joseph, Judah, Simon and James. Discontent develops as the elder brother goes about the land preaching, leaving the youngsters to make the family living.

Characterizing the brothers, respectively, were Jess May, Frank Barngrover, Dr. Richard Vermillion and Kevin Hoggard. Women of the household were done by Peggy Ross and Lyn Malone. Jesus' nephew was played by David Nelson as a small boy, Bill Moore as a teen-ager.

MARY travels about the land, meeting friends and foes of her son. Among these were Dr. Charles Ozanian, Barry Johnson, Dr. Earle Hoggard, and a Disciple, Steve McKenzie, Judas Iscariot.

The two Marys track Jesus to Jerusalem on a fateful Friday, meet Mary of Magdala, Jerry Simpson, innkeeper Celia Corlett and a woman who hates, Carole Walsh.

Life resumes something resembling normality in years following. Marriages and births occur, life goes on. A simple basic tale.

Others involved in these proceedings were Dr. Charlotte Stevenson, Carol Sisk, Jackie Berry, Rev. Dr. Hugh Nelson as the rabbi, marriage broker Charles Creighton, Jane Young, Steve Alvis, Lola Ross, Marvin Cloyd, another well-known Long Beach performer, did a cameo role as a Roman official wishing to buy crosses from Jesus' brothers.

Repeat performances are scheduled for tonight at 8:30; Thursday, Friday and May 20, 25, 26 and 27.

Junior College Trustees Study Lower Budget

Orange Coast Junior College District trustees have begun studies on a preliminary budget that is down $2,872 from last year's.

The budget, which would cover expenses at Orange Coast College, in Costa Mesa and Golden West College in Huntington Beach, is set at $10,943,176. The 1966-67 figure was $10,946,048.

School officials estimated total assessed valuation of the district at $703,292,000 — $54,215,220 over last year. The final budget will be adopted in August.

TOKYO (AP) — The Philadelphia Orchestra made a formal debut in Tokyo Friday night and won a five-minute ovation from a fashionable crowd of foreign diplomats and Japanese society.

Compton Opera-Goers Hear Many Young, Gifted Voices

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

Rossini's "Barber of Seville," a challenge to any opera company, whatever its size, was the closing Watts-area offering by touring Western Opera Theater, the San Francisco Opera's mini-group, Thursday night at Dooto's Music Center in northwest Compton.

Herbert Grossman again conducted the young company from one of two pianos (Lloyd Carroll was at the other); if we heard a lot of clinkers during the evening, and occasional discrepancies of ensemble, we sensed at least the best of intentions, music-wise, and well-considered tempi to boot.

Figaro was Allan James Monk, for whom the barber seems a more congenial part than Bob (in Menotti's "Old Maid"). The young singer makes up in dash and buoyancy what he lacks in comfortable tessitura. In the hurdle-role of Almaviva, Rico Serbo proved as gifted comedically as he is vocally. Tenors never begin by singing this part cleanly, and Serbo is no exception; however, with his combination of talents, he may someday make it uniquely his own.

Carol Kirkpatrick made an attractive, promising Rosina to his Count. She is dramatically credible, consistent and responsive musically; one suspects the voice is not as even as the acoustically dull Dooto building made it seem, but, who knows?

A skinny Bartolo and a slender-voiced Basilio are not usual these days, but Marvin Klebe and John Beauchamp made them convincing, wove them into the fabric of Ghita Hager's in-depth staging, and sang well in the bargain.

Berta was Donna Petersen, looking nothing like her Miss Todd, and betraying understandable vocal fatigue only in the final cadence of the aria. We guess, but could not prove, that her voice is the biggest in this group.

Another telling success was Thomas Hageman, who was both Fiorello and the police sergeant. The voice seems to have an heroic ring; if so, it bears watching.

As indicated, Ghita Hager's staging let laughter flow, while Robert Darling's economical set avoided tackiness and clutter in the same way John Conklin's "Old Maid" set had embraced those qualities.

Easily half of the large audience for this "Barber" were school-age children. Because they could understand the words easily, and because the comic touches were natural, and unforced, they stayed in their seats, enjoyed the show and listened attentively. They could teach the rowdy audience (both youngsters and adults) at the Young Musicians' Foundation concerts a thing or two.

BOOK REVIEWS

DIARY OF AN OLD MAN, by Chaim Bermant. Holt, Rinehart & Winston, $3.95.

Scottish humorist Chaim Bermant deliberately burdens his short novels — this is his fourth in a year — with prosaic characters and situations and then enriches them with his impish wit and gentle irony.

Cyril is a lonely pensioner of 84 living in the sooty London boarding house of Slatternly Mrs. McConnachie and his reflections are of one winter, the one in which he outlives his two remaining cronies, Harry and, at the end of the novel, George, who cannot bear life after the death of his beloved rubber plant.

With George, Cyril had discussed their "inner plumbing," made regular visits to the library periodical room, and to the clinic for repairs to George's bladder and Cyril's bad leg; and listened to "Choral Evensong" on the wireless. Cyril gets lost only a block from his room but survives a fire in the house, a stay in the hospital and the strange behavior of his "black man" neighbor — an Indian medical student who simply wants privacy to study for exams.

The chipper reasoning of the two friends about such subjects as longevity and how to make do on their tiny pensions are pertinent not only to those who have reached old age but to those who expect to attain it. As George would say, "Old age is contagious."

Bermant's realism is compared by some to Truman Capote's and his humor to Joyce Cary's, but his compassionate, tender writing marks him as an extraordinary talent, with no need to be equated to anyone. —Morry Rabin

Life in rural Mexico is charmingly illustrated on brightly colored pages. Unfortunately, Miguel's friend, Santiago, appears to be only a cardboard horse. 6 to 9. —E.P.H.

THE BUTTERFLY'S BALL AND THE GRASSHOPPER'S FEAST. By William Roscoe; illus., Don Bolognese. McGraw-Hill, $3.50.

Whimsical artist Bolognese revives a rhyme appearing in 1806 in London's "Gentleman's Magazine," published in book form in 1807, a great success then because it did not conform to the current requirement that children's books be instructive. Ages 4 to 8. —E.P.H.

Train Used to Kill Robbery Victim

An Orange market manager, who officers believe was robbed and placed unconscious on a railroad track, was killed Friday by a train in Pico Rivera.

The body of Pablo Luna, 27, of 305 1/2 11th St., Huntington Beach, was spotted on Southern Pacific tracks near Beverly Boulevard by the engineer of a slow-moving switch engine.

Sheriff's Sgt. Jim Wahlke said Luna's car was missing and his wallet was empty, though relatives said he always carried money with him.

Detectives believe Luna was robbed on a trip to Los Angeles, from which he never returned, to place a grocery order for Albert-son's Market in Orange, where he worked.

Supervisors in Orange County Fail to File Costs

To its embarrassment, the Orange County Board of Supervisors learned Friday its members are in violation of law.

They got the news from Mrs. Janie Boer of Santa Ana, a "government affairs analyst" who makes a hobby of keeping tabs on what is doing with the supervisors, city councils and various other political entities.

She told them that since they sponsored the drive for support of the proposed $46.4 million in flood-control bonds, they should have filed statement of campaign expenses as of 5 p.m. April 25—and she said it's not on file. They said they'll do it.

L.B. Home Ransacked

Huntington Beach. Their nine-boy "backup crew" also was honored by the Douglas Space Systems Management Club.

John C. McKee, club president, presented each boy with a certificate commemorating the "flight," and the school principal, James McCormick, accepted a plaque describing the event and the "diligent dozen" lads who dreamed up and accomplished the simulated space mission.

Gov. Ronald Reagan Friday appointed two Long Beach area men to advisory posts.

Wendell T. Handy of Compton was named to the Governor's Advisory Committee on Children and Youth. Dr. Alex B. Wilcox of Rolling Hills was appointed to the State Health Review and Program Council.

Russians Bitten by Fishing Bug

WASHINGTON — Members of the Soviet embassy staff, seized with a sudden enthusiasm for fishing, would like to try their luck in capitalist streams. The question now awaiting Soviet-American agreement is whether they will go after salt-water fish or fresh-water fish and how much it will cost.

Diplomatic negotiations on this problem began after the Russians purchased an old hotel on a tributary flowing into the Chesapeake Bay which they are patching up for use as a recreation center.

The tributary is better known for its stinging nettles than for its fish, but the Russians are determined to go fishing anyway.

Anxious to obey the law, they applied to the Maryland authorities for fishing licenses and were informed that no licenses are required for salt-water fishing.

Not wanting to be confined to their nettle-infested tributary, the Russians also asked about fresh-water fishing, which requires a license of $1 for a Marylander, $10 for anyone out of state. Asked how many licenses it would need, the Soviet embassy sent a list of 85 names.

THIS INVOLVED $850 in state revenue, and the Department of Game and Inland Fish, typically bureaucratic, referred the problem to Maryland's aggressive new attorney general, Bill Burch. He consulted the statutes, but could find no legal grounds for providing Russian diplomats with free fishing licenses.

Mindful of LBJ's policy of building bridges with the East, Burch suggested a diplomatic solution. The law allows 20 free fishing licenses for the President of the United States, also 20 free licenses for each of the state governors.

He suggested that the Russian embassy ask the President for his quota of 20 licenses, since LBJ is the godfather of Soviet-American understanding. Then the governors of New York, New Jersey and a couple of other states might contribute 20 licenses each. This would take care of enough courtesy licenses.

By the time this was done, however, the fishing season would be over, or half the SOVIET STAFF WOULD BE BACK IN Moscow on summer vacation.

ALTHOUGH politics is supposed to be thicker than blood in a Roosevelt, only one member of FDR's large family is still actively running for office. He is Elliott Roosevelt, who is running for re-election as mayor of Miami Beach next week.

Perhaps because the Roosevelt name still counts for a lot in Washington, the affable, crew-cut mayor has wangled more benefits out of the federal government in two years than Miami Beach had received in 50.

Some federal officials have complained privately that Miami Beach, under Elliott, has been treated more like a depressed area than the nation's No. 1 resort city. At any rate, in the past two years he has obtained a staggering $3,350,000 in government grants to improve Miami Beach.

APPARENTLY Elliott considers this only the beginning. He is now badgering the federal government to help foot the bill for filling in Pelican Island, which would add another 180 acres to Miami Beach for an 18-hole championship golf course.

Roosevelt has also made repeated trips to Washington to persuade both the Democratic and Republican parties to bring their national conventions to Miami Beach. He has promised a hotel for each delegation, "sunshine twins" to greet and assist each delegation, even babysitting service for mothers who want to bring their children. Exulted Roosevelt's effervescent wife Patty: "We can make them think they have died and gone to heaven."

Elliott Roosevelt is the hero of Miami Beach's senior citizens who still remember the late FDR.

Four candidates are running against him in the elections next week.

ANSWER QUESTIONS

State Hospital Conducts Tour

Ward Physician Dr. Arthur Farnham Addresses Therapy Group at Metropolitan

By VINT MADER

Volunteers conducted tours through the park-like grounds and selected wards, displays and exhibits were set up and senior staff members sat in panels to answer visitors' questions.

The occasion was open house at Metropolitan State Hospital, Norwalk, Friday as part of National Hospital Week commemoration.

DESPITE THE unaccustomed activities, the hospital's work of caring for some 3,000 persons with varying conditions of mental illness went on pace.

One of those whose day centered on treatment-as-usual was Dr. Arthur Farnham, ward physician and psychologist, whose rounds included individual consultations with patients, group therapy sessions and discussion groups with relatives of the 130 persons under his care.

Dr. Farnham, who requires only a year of residency for full certification as a psychiatrist, who left private medical practice in December to join the Metropolitan staff, began with responsibility for one ward of 80 men patients.

However, the freeze on filling of vacancies and expected cuts in the budget of the State Department of Mental Hygiene that includes the state hospitals, added a women's ward of 50 patients to his duties when another doctor left.

Concern for the budgetary prospect of "Metro" showed in the conversation of all staff members, but in the case of the slim, intense Farnham it is somewhat greater because he remains on a probationary status until June.

Typically, his worry is not for himself.

"Of course, any doctor can do better economically in his own practice," he said. "I am one of those kooky people who cares."

At James Hall, the hospital's auditorium and recreation center, Dr. Trent Bessent, chief psychologist, was among staff members who formed a series of panels to answer questioning visitors throughout the day.

Between discussion sessions, he also expressed concern about the staff and budget outlook, which are clouded in uncertainty.

At different times, he said Sacramento had informed Metro that for the fiscal year starting in July it is to be at the patient-staff ratio of January, after the freeze went into effect on vacancies, or at the ratio of July, 1966.

"Time to work with the individual patient is at the heart of Dr. Farnham's concerns, with doubled load."

The women's ward he tends consists mostly of younger patients, whose prognoses are more favorable and who can be helped by group methods and work therapy like gardening committees, art classes and other instruction taught by volunteers.

But in his men's ward are long-term patients who have been cut off from all relatives.

POINTING to one patient wandering through the clean but drab corridors of the ward, Dr. Farnham recalls the elderly man constantly ripped his clothing until recently and communicated with nobody.

Passing by the patient, the doctor speaks a cheerful greeting and enquiry. The reply is mumbled but it is audible: "Oh, I'm all right, doc."

"He's even taking an interest in the violin again—he's been a professional musician," Dr. Farnham comments after the encounter.

Jailed Ring Suspect Hangs Self

Police are continuing investigation of a burglary ring in which one of four persons arrested after a bullet-punctuated chase hanged himself in his cell.

Detectives said Joseph Ernest Montoya, 22, of 1320 Hyatt Ave., Wilmington, who made a noose of strips torn from a mattress cover, was pronounced dead in the Manhattan Beach jail at 1 a.m. Friday.

ANOTHER OF the suspects, Raymond David Rankin, 33, of Inglewood suffered a minor bullet wound in the chase that led from the Westchester area of Los Angeles to Manhattan Beach. He was booked on suspicion of burglary at the prison ward of Los Angeles County General Hospital, where he was reported in good condition Friday.

The chase began when Los Angeles officers tried to halt a truck carrying a sheet-covered TV set. They said Rankin was hit when he leaped from the truck in Inglewood and a shot was fired when he refused to stop running.

Also booked were Rankin's wife, Beverly, and Joseph W. Romero, 28, of 1104 E. Mauretania St., Wilmington.

Investigators said the suspects are believed to be members of a ring that moved burglary operations from the San Fernando Valley to the Centinella Valley.

VICE ADM. Bernard F. Roeder, 1st Fleet Commander, pins Legion of Merit on Rear Adm. Carlton B. Jones (left), at change of command Friday. Roeder was senior officer present and received 15-gun salute.

Legion of Merit to Admiral Jones

Two Legions of Merit spotlighted a dual change of command Friday at Pacific Mine Force.

Rear Adm. Carlton B. Jones received a gold star in lieu of a second Legion of Merit for "meritorious service, dynamic leadership and outstanding administrative ability while serving as Mine Force commander. Presenting the award on behalf of the Secretary of the Navy was Vice Adm. Bernard F. Roeder, commander, 1st Fleet, who praised Adm. Jones' work with the mine force.

Adm. Jones' other Legion of Merit was while in command of the destroyer USS Owen during World War II.

The second award, the nation's fifth highest, was presented to Capt. Frank N. Shamer by Adm. Jones. The citation said: "... Rendering of invaluable service and aggressiveness ... all evidenced in the readiness posture of the Pacific Mine Force ..."

THE OCCASION was Capt. Shamer, Mine Force chief-of-staff, to relieve Adm. Jones as commander, and Capt. Edward F. Leonard, Naval Station commander, to take over Adm. Jones' other billet as commander, Naval Base, Los Angeles.

Adm. Jones flies to Guam today where he will relieve Rear Adm. Horace V. Bird as commander, Naval Forces Marianas. Adm. Bird reports to Long Beach on May 22.

Adm. Jones termed his award, the good weather and fine turnout "as good a birthday you can ask as I end the finest 21 months in my Naval career."

'FUTURE IS BRIGHT'

Bemis Leaving Millikan

By MARK CLUTTER

Young people today are more fortunate—and more troubled—than the generations of the past, believes Eaton O. Bemis, principal of Millikan High School, who is retiring after a teaching career of 46 years.

And, despite storm warnings, the future is extremely bright for youth today and for those who come after them. A dramatic change came to American society about 10 years ago, and the next 10 or 15 years will give young people an opportunity for brilliant achievement.

"The major difference between young people now and in the past is that it is much more difficult now to know what the standards are. There used to be standards, but the adults changed them," Bemis said.

"MOST OF THE kids feel a real lack of security. It is hard to put things in black and white. The shaded areas between are much wider.

"Many times I have heard them wish for a greater feeling of security and for adults to demonstrate moral standards. There has been an increased willingness of parents to enjoy the 'good life' rather than to live the best lives they can.

"This generation," he smiled, "will do a better job of being parents."

The breakdown in standards is linked with the shift from rural and small-town living to the metropolis, he believes. And the intensity of living makes problems more difficult.

"MANY OF THE changes were unavoidable because of increased closeness," Bemis said. "There was a time when people could feel a sense of isolation. Now there are crowds everywhere. The chance to get re-creation instead of recreation is more difficult."

The youth of today are fortunate in the high quality of their education, which will become much better in the years ahead.

"I would rather be 19 today and headed for a teaching career than to be 19 in 1921 when I held my first job," he said. "Education is exciting and stimulating. The incentives for a young person to become a real professional teacher are very strong. It is one of the great careers."

"A high school education today is better than a college education when I was a student. High school teachers today are superior to college teachers of the past. They know more about teaching, psychology and developing student interests. They go to school regularly just to keep up with the trends in their fields.

"THE AREA OF the humanities is the key to all learning today. The humanities and social sciences will become the guides for other subjects.

"In spite of their stresses and confusion, I am not worried about how the 25-year-olds will run the country. They know more than their fathers knew at 40. And with their skills in acquiring knowledge and in research they are not likely to follow misguided leaders."

Bemis harked back to the way education was when he started. He graduated from high school at 15, earned his life certificate at 17, and became principal of a small high school at 19. He also taught English, history, mathematics, Latin, science and physical education.

"Here is an example of the kind of place it was,"

he said. "One of the boys came to school and boasted, 'I got my buck.' He saw a deer trapped in the snow and killed it with his knife. That meant meat on the family table."

A garden reception will be held in Bemis' honor at Millikan High School Sunday, May 21, from 2 to 5 p.m.

"I've been so busy I haven't made any plans for retirement," he said. "My wife and I will do some traveling this summer. We are both active in community groups. We have a home at Seal Beach Leisure World."

They have three children, Mrs. John Willis and Ridge Bemis of Long Beach and Dr. Charles Bemis of Westchester. Two of their ten grandchildren will be graduated this year. They are Sylvia Willis, Millikan, and Gayle Bemis, Poly.

Tunney Names 4 Reform Steps

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Rep. John V. Tunney, D-Riverside, advocated four steps Friday to "humanize" the federal government, whose "fabric is wearing thin in a few places."

Speaking at a Town Hall luncheon in the Pacific Coast Club at Long Beach, Tunney attacked the "inefficiency, rudeness and incapacity" which attend some areas of federal bureaucracy. He said his charges that government has lost some of its responsive quality is not the fault of either party's administration, but rather vast population increases and the people's dependence upon interstate controls over such things as transportation, communications, air and water pollution.

Tunney's first step would be a rebate of 2 per cent of net federal tax dollars to state and local governments. "It would indicate a national commitment to strengthen state and local governments."

Secondly, Tunney would offer "substantial new protection" to the rights of taxpayers by setting up regional tax commissions before which they could argue tax liability cases involving less than $2,500.

ARBITRARY decisions of an internal revenue agent now are equivalent to a final statement of the law, he said, and the cost of appealing them at a District of Columbia court would be prohibitive for amounts less than $2,500.

An office of congressional ombudsman is Tunney's third proposal. This ombudsman staff would act as expert trouble shooters and, by acting as a clearing house on all congressional complaints, would identify improperly functioning agencies of government. The alternative, said Tunney, is assigning more and more staff to legislators.

Finally, the Congressman would make changes in the federal grant-in-aid programs by (1) creating a national intergovernmental affairs council which would help determine what administrative policy should be and would coordinate programs between agencies at various levels of government, and (2) creating regional federal information centers utilizing automatic data processing equipment.

Local officials could use the centers to quickly find out whether there is a program to match their need.

"They could find out whether adequate funds were available and whether they qualified before they spent the time completing the paperwork."

REP. TUNNEY

Will Man Worship Computer as God?

Is the computer the God, the Cupid and the dictator of the future?

The men who think so — educators, clergymen, sociologists, psychologists — say man must awaken to the threat of the computer, or find himself doomed to live in a world run by computers.

Will man, devoid of individuality in a faceless society, submit to courtship and worship by computer? He may not have much choice. Find out why in "Is Man Obsolete?" — a stimulating four-part series authored by reported David Shaw and beginning Sunday in The Independent, Press-Telegram.

Closing Gap Between Two Popes

THE CHURCH ON THE MOVE, by W. A. Purdy, John Day Co., $6.95.

This solidly unseasonal study by a British Catholic educator and journalist, subtitled "The Character and Policies of Pius XII and John XXIII," attempts to close some of the popularity gap between the two late pontiffs.

It seeks to answer those who "play up" the stirring popular John in order to denigrate his more aloof and scholastic predecessor. To do this, the author, a lecturer in philosophy at Beda College in Rome and Vatican correspondent for The Tablet of London, had to do two things: 1. Show an essential continuity of thought and direction between the two popes despite dramatically different historic contexts and temperaments. 2. Meet head-on the controversial criticisms of Pius' role in relation to the Nazis during World War II, including what he calls "the caricature of the Pope that is 'The Deputy'."

He does both in a scholarly yet highly readable manner which should fascinate students of history as well as of religion.

A SECONDARY yet interwoven theme — one on perhaps less hotly disputed grounds — is that the Church is irreversibly on the move toward basic renewal despite tenacious opposition by arch conservatives.

Father Purdy considers it unfair to the word "conservative" to so describe the standpaters, so he calls them "integralists." By whatever name, he lets them have it.

"Fruitful dying and resurrection are integral to Christianity," he says in a preface. "Ossification is not, but the integralist thinks to preserve only by ossification. Attachment to the outward form commits him to much that alienates the world he is there to save — makes his good news sound like a stale and repetitious story. To repudiate integralism is not to repudiate the old and enduring. It is only to repudiate what has ceased to have touch with life."

Both Pius and John in their different ways expressed this thinking, Purdy believes.

The book is not an apology for Pius, but does document for the first time in English much pertinent material about the wartime pontiff's difficult situation, his anguish at the Nazi bestiality, and his many attempts to mitigate the horror, within what he saw as the limits of the possible.

THE AUTHOR makes a persuasive case for understanding how Pius was caught in the web of an historic dilemma. He tends to agree with the postwar verdict of German Cardinal Dopfner that "The retrospective judgment of history perfectly authorizes the opinion that Pius XII should have protested more firmly. There is nevertheless no justification for doubting the sincerity of his motives or the authenticity of his profound reasons."

On the question of the church's forward movement, Purdy contends that John inherited and then accelerated much that Pius had in his scholarly way initiated.

"It is an extraordinary irony," he writes in a chapter called Conclusion, "that the name of Pius XII, one of the keenest, most insatiable minds in the history of the papacy should have been invoked in support of the kind of integralism that the second Vatican Council has largely routed."

The book probes deeply into such debatable topics as Vatican relations with the Communist world (including the tensions created by the presence in Italy itself of a massive Red party with the allegiance of millions), separation of church and state, the population explosion, anti-semitism, the ecumenical movement, the role of the bishops, the morality of nuclear war, and religious tolerance. It contains an informative examination of Pope John's "Pacem in Terris."

PURDY'S passing comments on America, given his vantage point, are of a terms of popular reference. For instance, he refers to Eleanor Roosevelt as "the voluble, rather anti-Catholic widow of the late President," and in turn takes a swipe at those American Catholics who backed Joe McCarthy, such as "The Brooklyn Tablet and the kind of uncomplicated minds it catered to . . ." He is no kinder to some of the publications in his own native land, saying "British Catholics, in fact, had no reason to feel any tenderness to authoritarian regimes, though you might not always have thought so from reading the Catholic press."

His carefully rounded treatment of Pius extends to John. But while there is no simplistic hoorah for everything John said and did in his too brief reign, there is also no questioning the author's estimate of that great man's overriding importance in history. In his conclusion, Purdy writes:

" . . . for every seminar or journalist who has defended extravagant and shallow views by taking John's name in vain, a hundred statesmen, a thousand mature scholars, as many non-Catholic religious leaders and a hundred times as many ordinary people have been brought to think of the Church more deeply, more sympathetically, more reverently, more seriously."

FROM THE PULPIT

The greatest word is God. The deepest word is Soul. The longest word is Eternity. The swiftest word is Time. The nearest word is Now. The darkest word is Sin. The tenderest word is Love. The sweetest word is Home. The dearest word is MOTHER.

Everybody's mother is something special. Think of mother and you think of home. Think of home and you think of the Bible. Think of the Bible and you think of Christ.

The first university is the university of the home. Here the hours for recitation are morning, noon and night. Here are enthroned two great chairs — endowed by destiny and sustained by human affection — Fatherhood and Motherhood.

A young man away from home said that he found three things in his mother's letters: Money, love, and tears.

"My mother's prayers haunt me like a ghost," said a wayward son.

Honor MOTHER this Sunday by Sunday School and church attendance. We have a very special day scheduled at Calvary. The Singing Players Family will be with us. Special messages and music are planned. You have been planning to come. Make it this Sunday.

A Pastor Asks: Can You Believe in Virgin Birth?

We have maintained that the creed of the church is a personal conviction that Jesus is God's son. We've maintained that this simple statement is enough, if we mean by it all that the New Testament means by faith in Jesus Christ. Without the historical Jesus depicted in the pages of the New Testament, we can have no vital faith in any real Christ. Faith in the virgin birth is no more difficult than faith in any miracle that is written in the New Testament. A Christ who has no power to work miracles is certainly not the New Testament Christ. High among the important things to believe about Christ is the way the Scriptures say that he entered the world and the way he left the world.

The Bible says simply that the one who was born of Mary came as the result of the overshadowing, or conception, of the Holy Spirit. One of the great controversial doctrines of the church has been this doctrine of the Virgin Birth. I hate to depict anything just cold turkey as, per se, the virgin birth. I think you must understand, in order to appreciate what happened, what occurred in the incarnation. You must catch the entire picture rather than focus your attention on one particular item by itself. The virgin birth alone is not important, but taken with the entire ministry of Jesus it becomes a precious faith that this was God in flesh who was manifested among us.

I'M CONVINCED that this is a doctrine which has been grossly misused. I've heard all kinds of imaginative sermons on this subject whereby they trace the bloodline through the father, and many other things which make out of this much more than the New Testament ever stated. It is the New Testament which make allusion to the virgin birth. We do not want to make more out of this doctrine than the New Testament made out of it. It is not provable. It has no other evidence for it except the simple statement which I read to you this morning. If it is to be accepted at all, it must be accepted simply because the Scriptures say it. If this is not reason enough for you then we cannot supply any other.

The first question in dealing with this subject is to ask what difference does it make? Most of the books I read which are critical to this subject state that they feel it doesn't really make any difference. They say if one believes in the Deity and the sinlessness of Christ, what difference does it make how he was born. Well, let's just notice what difference it makes.

A denial of the virgin birth of our Lord, calls into question the integrity and the reliability of the Scriptures. The reason I believe that Jesus was born of the virgin Mary is because the Scriptures say it. That's the total reason I believe it. If I do not believe this, there is no reason for me to believe anything else the Scriptures say. For the only Jesus I believe in at all is the Jesus of Scripture.

We print here a sermon by James S. McKown, pastor of Long Beach's First Christian Church, on the topic "Can an Intelligent Man Believe in the Virgin Birth?" as a forceful viewpoint on a much debated point of Scripture. The Independent Press-Telegram will on occasion publish other sermons of particular general interest by Long Beach area ministers.

If I take the embarrassing, the difficult Scriptures out of the Gospel, I have a rather brief Christ at best. A denial of the virgin birth leads to a denial of all the other miracles. If you're going to deny that this happened because it just doesn't seem possible, then you're left with very little in the Gospel that you can believe.

It just doesn't seem possible that Christ could take water and turn it into wine. It just doesn't seem possible for me that Christ could stand in front of the tomb in which a man has been dead for three days and say "Lazarus come forth," and watch him come from the tomb. It doesn't seem possible to me that this one who was hung on the cross for many hours, who was pierced with a spear, who was taken down and pronounced dead by Roman soldiers, who was wrapped with bandages and anointed with gallons of ointment, and then placed in a tomb and left there for three days; it doesn't seem possible to me that He could possibly have arisen.

IF YOU TAKE out of the Scriptures everything that doesn't seem possible, you are left with nothing concerning Jesus. So I believe in the virgin birth, not because it is plausible, but because it has the same scriptural foundation as any cardinal truth of Scripture.

Why it is that man for so many years, has been insistent in stripping God of His Deity. We call this Humanism, this belief that all that is, is. All there can be is what we now know by our own senses. That God, if there is a God, is somehow bound within this mechanistic world with laws and rules which He himself created and He cannot step out of them. He works through: the natural processes, which is the only way He can work.

There's no use praying. Why would you pray, except for the psychological good that it would do you? What could God do about it if all things go on naturally? When you start to strip away the miraculous out of the Christian system, you strip away the Christian system itself. Christians believe that there is a God who not only transcended history at point "A" in the person of Jesus of Bethlehem, but who continues to move and work His purposes in the affairs of men with victory. We believe we're not caught up in some great caldron of terror that one day will just end with a loud bang. We believe that this world is being guided toward the purposes of God.

I preached a series of sermons in Seattle recently on the last verse of the Lord's Prayer, "For thine is the kingdom and the power and the glory." The "Kingdom" was easy and the "Power" was easy but this word "Glory" threw me. I'd not really given it much thought before. I went to Hastings' Dictionary of the Bible, the "Encyclopedia of Religion and Ethics," and two or three other sources and tried to search this word "glory" down through the Old Testament and as it is used in the New Testament.

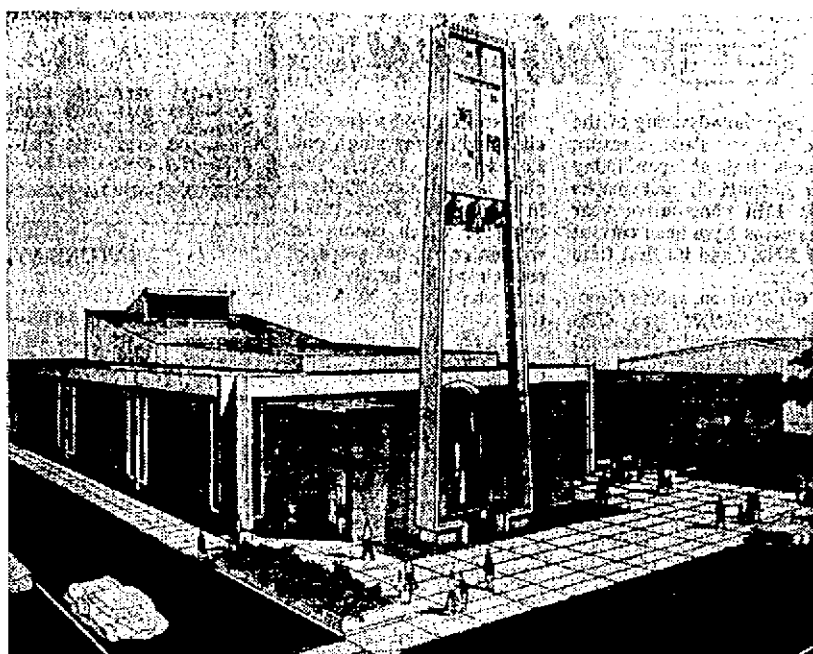

It's a word that we don't quite understand — "Glory shown around about them," "The whole earth is filled with His glory," "We shall be changed from glory to glory," and the whole message of the apocalypse is the fact that this is God's glory. Dr. Whitam wrote that this word, summed up, means that history is moving in God's direction. What we're praying, therefore, when we pray, "For thine is the kingdom and the power and the glory," is our conviction that God moves in this world to bring about His own purposes. This was a tremendous faith for those who first learned that prayer. It is just as essential for us to catch the sight of the glory of God moving in our world. Those who deny the virgin birth have taken away the initial cause of God's purposive action of intervention in the affairs of men. It does make a difference that you believe in the virgin birth, for to deny it is to deny the possibility of a God who can move in human affairs.

Why shouldn't we believe it? There are several suggestions given why we shouldn't. (Concluded Next Saturday)

Happy Day in Norwalk

The long planned building of a new 1,200-seat church for St. John of God Catholic Parish in Norwalk will get underway with a groundbreaking ceremony Sunday, 2:30 p.m. at the site, 13819 S. Pioneer Ave.

The occasion coincides with the 35th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood of Rev. Louis W. Buechner, who has been pastor since the parish was established 17 years ago.

The parish, only one completely within Norwalk, grew along with the city, and now contains 3,300 families, some 14,000 people.

Sunday Mass was held in the Norwalk Theater for the first year. The existing church was built as a temporary edifice in 1951, along with a social hall. The rectory, convent and school offices, and two units of the school, were added through the years, while plans matured for the major structure.

Joined to the rectory, it will be of contemporary design to harmonize with surrounding buildings. The nave will be 94 feet wide, and there will be four banks of pews, 24 rows each, so worshippers will not be far from the altar, which will be situated so Mass can be celebrated with priest facing congregation. The baptistry will be at the midpoint of the narthex. The bell tower will be 70 feet high.

Father Buechner will offer a Solemn High Mass of Thanksgiving at 12:15 p.m., followed by a reception at the parish hall, and the groundbreaking. Many civic and religious notables are expected to join in the festive occasion.

CONFIDENT LIVING

Face the Reason for Your Anxiety

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

A big-league baseball executive brought a case to our religio-psychiatric clinic. It had to do with a well-known pitcher who suddenly went into a definite slump. Batters were hitting his pitches all over the lot, inside and outside the park. The number of men he walked was phenomenal. The control that had made him one of baseball's greats had seemingly evaporated into thin air. His manager was flabbergasted — and completely mystified.

Luckily there was a film of this pitcher in action when he was in top form. Shown in slow motion, the long-lens closeups revealed many details of his wind-up and delivery. So the manager had similar pictures taken during his slump performance. When studied together the two films revealed among other things that the man's foot was thrust a full three inches further forward on the rubber than when he was pitching well.

From long experience with other players the manager recognized this forward shift of the foot as a sign of overreaching. He knew that this in itself could destroy a pitcher's accuracy. He also knew that overreaching frequently results from deep anxiety of one kind or another. He persuaded the pitcher to consult the pastors and psychiatrists at our American Foundation of Religion and Psychiatry.

IN CONSULTATION it came out that this man was having family trouble which occasioned deep anxiety. This had been aggravated by a realization on the part of the pitcher that his moral slips underlay the family strain. Therefore, his sense of guilt mixed with anxiety had resulted in acute tension which in turn developed the overreaching causing the pitching slump.

This pitcher was a sensitive and rather highly organized personality and was married to a somewhat straightlaced and dominating woman. His mother had been of similar type, and is not infrequently the case, the young man had unconsciously chosen for his wife a replica or continuation of the mother figure. Or at least so our counseling team of pastors and psychiatrists reasoned. Sex relationship was almost nil between husband and wife due to the mother-wife concept of the wife.

When the psychological mechanism was explained to the couple the self-knowledge which it brought to them did much to stimulate understanding. Almost at once, the anxiety-guilt-tension, pattern was arrested. The home situation improved. A long-term program of counseling was, of course, required before the problem was brought under full control. But the hurler's performance on the diamond rapidly returned to normal. The nervous foot reverted to its old position. He was soon displaying all his former mastery of the mound. The balls went whizzing across the plate as true and accurate as ever, confounding batter after batter.

THE ROMAN philosopher Seneca said, "The mind is never right, but when it is at peace within itself." Much can depend upon realizing this! For unless your mental condition is right your efforts do not get right results.

Tele-Vues by TERRY VERNON

Color broadcasting of the Hollywood Park Feature Races starts at 5 p.m. today on channel 2, and marks the 11th consecutive year the races have been carried by KNXT and its first time in color.

Gil Stratton, sports director for KNXT and CBS Television Pacific Network, handles the interviews and film features: Harry Henson calls the races.

There will be 11 color telecasts this session: $25,000 Debonair Stakes today; $50,000 Los Angeles Handicap, May 20; $25,000 Hollywood Ladies, May 27. Other races to be televised: $100,000 California, $30,000 Argonaut Stakes, $50,000 Inglewood Handicap, $50,000 Cinema Handicap, $50,000 Vanity, $100,000 Hollywood Derby, $162,100 Hollywood Gold Cup and $100,000 Hollywood Juvenile Handicap.

Other sports events on TV today include the World Invitational High Diving Championships in Las Vegas, the International Parachuting Championships from Bulgaria and the National AAU Gymnastic Championships in color on ABC's Wide World of Sports, 5 to 6:30 p.m., channel 7.

MIRIAM MAKEBA, the Republic of South Africa's unofficial envoy to the world of music, is featured on "Dail M for Music" which returns to TV in color from 3:30 to 4 p.m. today on channel 2.

She will sing a selection of native South African songs and will be interviewed by the series host, Father Norman J. O'Connor, C.S.P., cleric who digs jazz.

Miss Makeba literally clicks when she sings, and as explained to us, this click is a phonetic "letter" in her native Xosa tribal language which cannot be written and is not properly enunciated by hardly anyone who isn't a Xosa native.

EARLY BIRD communications satellite brings U.S. viewers coverage of Pope Paul IV's visit to Fatima, Portugal, to pray for peace. If you're up early enough it is live from 5 to 9 a.m. on channel 4 and 6 to 9 a.m. on channel 2. There will probably be clips from the films throughout the day on the various network news shows, and channel 4 will carry a special half-hour show at 8 p.m.

E. G. MARSHALL, Edmond O'Brien and Kim Stanley have been signed for starring roles in the NBC TV production of William Hanley's "Flesh and Blood," to air in color next season. "You're in Love, Charlie Brown," a new Charles Schulz animated late Valentine's Day TV card, comes to CBS June 12. Rita Moreno, who won an Oscar for her role in "West Side Story," has been signed to guest star in a "Run for Your Life" segment.

HARBOR CHEVROLET
A scout for a certain national league baseball team drove to the OZARKS for a few days of a squirrel-hunting. When he asked a tall youth who had a dozen squirrels fastened to his belt if he shot them, the youngster replied, "NAW, I HIT 'EM WITH ROCKS!"

The skeptical scout asked for a demonstration and then keenly observed the young marksman throw a rock left-handed at a squirrel 150 feet high up in a tree. The tiny animal dropped at their feet — stone dead!

The excited scout, leaping up and down, and waving his arms wildly, shouted, "Why — you'll be the greatest left-handed pitcher the world has ever seen!" "I AIN'T LEFT-HANDED," "PAW WON'T LET ME THROW RIGHT-HANDED — CUZ IT TEARS 'EM UP TOO MUCH!"

Folks, you'll find good hunting at HARBOR CHEVROLET. Phone GA 6-3411, 3770 Cherry Ave.

Whether you want one car — OR 21 — the guy to see is ME — DER!!
